COMPETITIONS FOR CHRISTMAS SHOOT

1. Don't shoot the Hostage! 2 shots at the perp, 1 x head, 1 x body. If you hit the hostage you lose the points shown. .22 rimfire Benchrest (any rifle).
2. Shoot the dots. 1 shot into each circle. Hitting the centre dot scores the value shown underneath. A shot completely in the circle but not touching the dot = 5 points. Outside the circle = minus 10 points. .22 rimfire Benchrest (s/auto only).
3. Gallery Rifle (CF) weak shoulder, standing unsupported. 30 shots in 10 minutes (15 on each target) to include all loading. Targets - PL 12s.

A few notes on F Class

Scoring/Converting Sighters: No decision will be made until after the second sighting shot, at which time you may convert either the second shot only, or both shots. You cannot convert the first shot without converting the second shot. The decision to convert must be made before you fire your next shot.

As soon as you have made your decision, your scorer must strike through, with a single diagonal line, the shot(s) to be converted, and immediately enter it/them as scoring shots(s) No 1 or 2 as appropriate.

Classes

F/Open: Briefly, any rifle up to 8mm with a max weight of 10kg. Rifle may be fired off a bipod or a front rest.

F/TR: Any rifle in calibre .223 or .308, or metric equivalent, with a max weight of 8.25kg. Rifle must be fired off a bipod, which is included in the weight limit. Anyone firing off of anything other than a bipod will be classed as firing in the F/Open class.

TRPC Points Scoring: All shooters, whether firing F/O or F/TR, will score points in the Open class (the overall competition). Those shooters firing F/TR will have their scores extracted from the F/Open list and entered in the F/TR list.

Now, this is where, for some, it gets slightly confusing; let's say, for example that you shoot a .223 from a bipod (F/TR) - that is your first attempt and will be counted for points in the overall competition, and also in the F/TR competition. If you then shoot the same combination again, or another F/TR rifle from a bipod, that is your 2nd att and will not count for points for the competition.

If you then wish to fire an F/TR rifle in the F/Open class by shooting off of something other than a bipod, this is fine provided it is not the same rifle that was previously used to compete in the F/TR class. Likewise, an F/TR rifle previously shot as an F/Open class rifle must not be later shot as an F/TR rifle. In simpler terms - the same rifle will not be used in F/TR and F/Open by the same person.
